LACK OF TEACHERS MAY CLOSE SOME SCHOOLS

Threat To Classes in The Rural Area; College Seniors Aiding

155 QUIT IN 6 MONTHS

Once again the lack of teachers threatens to close some rural schools in Bucks County, states Charles H. Boehm, superintendent of Bucks County schools. Three weeks ago the closing of two rural schools was narrowly averted when two seniors from Kutztown State Teachers College were persuaded to teach in them for a five weeks period.

According to reports coming to the office of the county superintendent, 155 teachers have left their positions in Bucks County in the past six months. Nine teachers have served notices that they will be leaving in January. Fifty-five per cent of the teachers who left have accepted better teaching positions elsewhere. Five school boards granted special salary raises in December. In five classrooms in the county the pupils have had as many as three teachers in the past four months.

The full impact of the war is being felt in other directions. Five industrial arts departments are now in charge of teachers untrained in that field. Several of these departments may soon have to close for the duration. In another month several hundred pupils will begin to walk to school as the school boards are now planning to cut more than 100 miles off the daily school bus routes. Further curtailment of school bus transportation may be expected before next fall. The enrollment in the Bucks County schools is down ten per cent over the same period last year. A large number of pupils have dropped out to accept full time employment. One school district reported a net loss of 40 pupils in November.

Nearly all of the high schools have already made plans to incorporate the Victory Corps program in their second semester programs. Seven high schools have added one period daily to take care of the new work. Over half of the high schools have already consented to the request of the War Production Board and have sold 20 per cent of their typewriters to the government. The loss of these typewriters has added new problems as he enrollment in the typing classes is (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Support For The Army

Washington, Jan. 7. FROM various quarters opposition to the expansion of the army to the 7,500,000 men now planned for it has been made manifest. More is expected. The most recent disapproval has come from WPB and Manpower Commission authorities, who feel that the War Department plans should be scaled down. It is reported a similar feeling exists in the Office of Defense Transportation and in the Food Administration.

ALL OF which raises an issue: Are we going to accept and support the judgment of our military leaders on military matters, or are we going to permit modification of their plans by the civilian heads of Administration agencies whose wholehearted co-operation is indispensable? There

569 PRISONERS ARE COMMITTED IN 1942 TO BUCKS CO. JAIL

64 Sentenced By The Court, and 204 by Justices of Peace

PUBLIC IS COMMENDED

Warden Pleased With The Co-operation Given Prison Officials

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 8.—In an annual report of the Bucks County Prison for 1942, prepared by Warden Earl D. Handy, prison problems are explained and the public and press is praised for the fine co-operation offered at all times to prison officials.

During the year 1942 there were 569 prisoners committed to the institution. Sixty-four prisoners were sentenced by the Court and 204 prisoners were sentenced by Justices of the Peace. The number of women prisoners committed in Bucks during 1942 was 22.

The prison report shows that 225 prisoners were committed by Justices of the Peace and held for further hearing and that 219 prisoners were discharged by Justices of the Peace last year.

The number of prisoners transferred from the Bucks County Prison to other institutions in 1942 were as follows: Eastern State Penitentiary, 13; Camp Hill, 5; Huntingdon Reformatory, 3; Kis Lynn, 3; Glen Mills, 2; Allentown State Hospital, 1; Norristown State Hospital, 6; Sleighton Farms for Girls, 1.

There were two attempted suicides during 1942.

"Having an adequate work program in a county prison, to prevent idleness among the jail prisoners seems to be more in discussion these days than the varying cost of living," Warden Handy told newspapermen yesterday.

"We don't need talk when it comes to preventing idleness, we need action, at once. Jail wardens particularly have had a hard time with this problem but here and there a few have emerged with ingenious, yet simple plans for keeping the short-termers busy, and constructively so."

Warden Handy said that prisons throughout the nation this past year, more than ever before, have been endeavoring to keep their inmates busy with some sort of project that would be a benefit to the nation as well as the individual prisoners.

At the Bucks County Prison, the prisoners have been trying to help out with the work at the Bucks County Home whenever called upon. Prisoners have also made necessary repairs and improvements to the grounds at the County Prison.

HABIT

Habit has a place in human affairs which, commonplace as it is, shows up amazingly in times like these. When the automobile made its advent and came into general use thirty years ago, it was a general habit of motorists to maintain statistics on the number of gallons of gasoline they used. There was widespread rivalry in the matter of miles per gallon, not to mention prevarication.

This was in the transitory period between the buggy and the automobile. But as the motor car was improved and became increasingly a part of everyday life, most motorists ceased to compute miles per gallon
and their only concern about gasoline was to see that the car had a sufficient supply to meet requirements. In buggy days the weariness of the horse put a limit on the length of trips. In the period of full motor car development there was no limit.
The distance covered by many a private automobile, when the owner took notice of it, was surprising.

It had become a habit to take out the car any time of the day or night
and to go anywhere fancy dictated.
Locomotion in America became almost as automatic as breathing.

Gasoline rationing has interrupted free and easy transportation. Motorists are computing miles per gallon as never before. Number of trips has been drastically curtailed.
To many motorists the switch to the new order naturally has been trying.
When they give the matter consideration they discover that they have formed a new motoring habit which for a time will place them in a new relation to their cars.

But when gasoline and tire restrictions are taken off the great majority of motorists will snap back to their former motoring habits in a week.

WAR OIL STATUS

One of the elements entering into the fast-developing situation which will result in a knock-out for Hitler is steady deterioration in his access to oil supplies and improvement in the position of the United Nations
for commanding that fuel.

Hitler has not obtained the Baku fields and he no longer has hope of reaching fields beyond the Caucasus in Iran and Iraq. He is forced to depend for his oil requirements on Rumania and on synthetic manufacture. These supplies are not sufficient to maintain his mechanized forces.

In the meantime the armies of the Allies in Africa are building up their oil reserves from America and will be adding to them soon from Asia. When the invasion of Europe by the Allies opens they will have plenty of oil.

Oil is being shipped in quantity from the United States and the new pipeline between Illinois and the Atlantic Coast will be delivering 300,000 barrels of crude a day by June, all of it intended for shipment to the armies overseas.

The President says only a small percentage of the 3,000,000 New Dealers on the federal payroll
"work" in Washington. This is not news to citizens who are constantly tripping over them.

COMMUNICATION

Editor, Courier:

The Civilian Defense Units of West
Bristol Division of Bristol Township rallied to assist the fire companies at the fire in the home of Mr. Alden Wilson on Monday evening.
The Director of the local Defense Council reports that every unit of the Civilian Defense Corps dispatched their duties in an extremely satisfactory manner. The firemen of all companies responding had a hazardous job of fighting the fire, which the high wind and cold weather made extremely difficult. The Emergency Police handled all traffic and barred trespassers who would have hampered the activities of the firemen. Air Raid Wardens assisted the firemen in every way possible and accepted as their detail the job of removing furniture. The Demolition Squad were on hand and found it necessary to remove several limbs from burning trees which became

in the Fergusonville Community Center was manned and Casualty workers from various parts of the area assisted the Canteen group in dispensing coffee and doughnuts. The messenger boys were on hand to meet any eventuality. Members of the various Defense Units kept an all night vigil to protect the damaged property from vandalism. All Units cooperated with each other and proved conclusively that under pressure they are fitted to protect life and property in the event of an emergency.

DAVID M. SHEERER,
Director.

The Great Game of Politics

does believe. The army further believes that it can supply the bulk of these 7,500,000 men abroad with food, clothing, ammunition, planes, guns and tanks. And, the navy has said that it not only can transport the troops but the supplies. In brief, the heads of our military and naval establishments have not only planned to expand the army far beyond its present figure but are certain the expanded army can be maintained, supplied and transported to the battle fronts across the seas.

THAT, of course, cannot be done except through the united and co-ordinated exertions of the war production and regulating agencies. And that is why the disposition of some of these to pull back instead of push forward on this 7,500,000-army proposition is not good. The big reason so many of these governmental agencies find unpalatable the proposal to induct 3,000,000 more men into the military service this year is not hard to find. Such an increase unavoidably will add greatly to their own burdens, make more difficult the jobs they already, in some cases, find too difficult.

FROM one quarter the complaint is that such an expansion in the overseas forces will render far more acute the food shortages at home, will require stiffer rationing of the civilian population, impose new hardships upon the people. From another, it is said that the addition of three million more men will put an almost unbearable strain upon the already badly strained railroads. From another, it is argued that the expansion will make it more difficult for the farmer to find farm hands and for the war industries to find workmen, and that the whole manpower situation will be made worse. Let it be admitted at once that these contentions are all sound. But, what of it?

BEYOND QUESTION three million more troops in the army means a further dislocation of civilian life and greatly enhanced sacrifices upon the part of the stay-home population. It means, too, harder problems and harder work for the agency heads at Washington. It means less food, less gasoline, less clothing and more taxes—more sacrifices all down the line. Nevertheless, these additional millions of men are needed to win the war. Instead of finding reasons why the enlarged army cannot be handled, it would be much more to the purpose if the present objectors would devote themselves to finding ways by which it can be handled. For example, there would seem no longer even the flimsiest excuse for our Administration politicians fudging the extension of the forty-hour week to forty-eight hours, which would be equivalent to adding several million men as workers—or to avoid any of the other logical steps for increasing manpower, despite lobby opposition.

IN VIEW of this planned expansion of the army, two things seem essential—first, that the people as a whole accept the fact that this year their individual and collective sacrifices will be very much greater; second, that the President bring the military heads and the civilian agency heads together in some sort of war cabinet where daily contact may be had and complete understanding and co-operation assured. Once the 7,500,000 army has been decided upon—and it has been—there ought to be no opportunity for any agency head to throw sand on the track. If there are objections, they ought to be presented in the war cabinet, there debated and either met or rejected. But, once a basic military policy has been evolved and announced, there should be no question of support. That should be complete. There is no other way to win the war.

The sensation of the cartoon comedies is a wise-cracking, carrot-crunching rabbit named "Bugs Bunny." The hilarious Bugs, who heads an all-star cast of screen favorites in Leon Schlesinger's "Looney Tunes" and "Merrie Melodies" comedies, has blossomed into a great smash hit in the comic pages, too.

Of course you know Bugs Bunny and his gang: Porky Pig, Petunia Pig, Elmer Fudd, Chester Turtle, Sniffles.

Bugs Bunny now makes his bow in The Inquirer as a Sunday comic in full color ... begining Sunday, January 10.

NEW NERO WOLFE MURDER MYSTERY

Nero Wolfe's latest adventure in the dangerous business of unraveling murder mysteries is the subject of next Sunday's complete novel, "Black Orchids," by Rex Stout. If you're a Nero Wolfe fan, that's all you need to know. But if you've never met the amazing Mr. Wolfe, be sure to do it now! He's one of the most fascinating characters in detective fiction. And "Black Orchids" is the story of one of his most exciting adventures. So don't miss it!

Interest Increases in Raising Steers

The 200 steers in the King Farm herd are located on the tract along Bordentown Road, between Tullytown borough and the Delaware River. This tract was formerly the site of an arsenal.

Feeding lots have been established there for the cattle.

The decision to raise steers was reached primarily at the King Farms when certain acreage was deemed as better for pasture than for the raising of vegetables.

discovered gave him an opportunity to aid in the nation's war effort.

Pico, whose powerful arm muscles carried him to the National Rope Climbing Championship, was a former Bristol high school student, he gained the championship when a sophomore here in 1935.

He also starred in gymnastics at Penn State, and held the national rope title in 1940 and 1941. At the A. A. U. meeting in Chicago, Ill., in 1940, "Pico" set a world's record, climbing 25 feet in five seconds.

The young man, who is happy at his war job at Fleetwings, was "kym" coach last year at the University of Maryland, but the institution dropped that department in favor of military training this year.

After being rejected when he attempted to join the navy as a physical education instructor, due to the lame condition of his left leg, the result of infantile paralysis, he decided to locate if possible with a defense firm here.

"My brother 'Danny' was an electrician at Fleetwings, but he quit to enlist in the navy," stated "Pico." "I decided to take an aircraft job and fill in for him on the production front." The young gymnast has hopes of getting back into "gym" work after the war.

Lack of Teachers May Close Some Schools

now as high as it has ever been. In some cases, in order to get better utilization out of the remaining typewriters, the number of periods a week that they are available to each pupil has been cut down and in other schools pupils stay after school hours to get the required practice. In a few districts the less efficient pupils have been eliminated from typing classes.

By this time the school children have accepted air raid drills, weekly war savings sales, and scrap collections as a matter of routine.

The teachers have again been called upon to assist the U. S. Treasury Department, this time in distributing income tax information. War Ration Books-2 are on hand and within a short while the teachers will assist in their distribution at 165 school buildings scattered over the county.

The regular medical examination of school pupils will be severely curtailed this year as there are five vacancies in the total of six health districts. The dental clinic program which has always been inadequate is in danger of being entirely eliminated. Fortunately, however, the number of school nurses has not been reduced. The County School Directors Association program consisting of audiometric and tele-biocular survey testing could not have been initiated at a more opportune time. The examination of the ears and eyes is more exacting now than it has ever been. For the first time, too, psychological testing is reaching all school districts of the county and a systematic program of speech correction is under way on a county-wide basis.

Faith Clarke's SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

ONLY $1 for splendid little bathroom rugs in good designs. These are firmly woven of chenille and roving, and have self-fringed ends. They come in pink, blue, green, orchid, and black and white. These, too, are a January Sale buy in the Snellenburg White Goods Dept., 2nd fl. Don't wait. There is a higher priced collection in excellent design. Look them all over.

WHAT A SALE! The Snellenburg Fur Coat Dept. is doing itself proud as well as fur coat patrons a favor every day from now until including Saturday. Imagine fur garments, from $189 to $259 in value, going for $144 in this sale! So many different kinds, too, and all the newest lines and touches. Some of the many furs are sable blended, northern-back muskrat, natural gray Persian, black Persian, tipped skunk, South American ocelot cat, natural gray kidskin, natural catlynx, etc. Grand! 2nd floor.

TOWELS LAST and one should have a reasonable quantity on one's shelf. The Snellenburg Toweling Dept., 2nd fl., is able to offer, for the January White Sale, some especially good bordered dish toweling, at only 29c a yard. This is a good-looking and absorbent mixture of linen and rayon, with cotton decorative border in color. Ready-made kitchen towels made of 70% linen and 30% cotton are also to be had at a good White Sale price of 29c each. I'm buying!

TIME NOW to buy blankets as they are included in the January White Sales. One is fortunate to be able to find blankets of 80% wool and 20% synthetic wool at only $8.89 each. See them, and feel them, in the Snellenburg Blanket and Comfort Dept., 2nd fl. These luxurious blankets are both light and warm, fluffy, too. Beautiful tones of claret, cedar, peach, royal blue, light blue, rose. Size 72x84 ins. There's a White Sale feature of Pepperell blankets, too, at but $5.95 each. These are 12 1/2% virgin wool, 50% rayon and 37 1/2% cotton. The deep nap gives additional warmth. Rose, peach, blue, green. Extra length—72x90 ins. Blankets at both prices have handsome rayon satin bindings.

100% PRACTICAL are the mattress protectors to go between a wire spring and the mattress itself. They cost but $1, yet add years of life to any mattress, not to speak of protecting sheets from tearing. They are fashioned of a stiff material that offers support and longer life to the coils in any spring mattress, too. I wouldn't be without one on each bed. I do not know that they can be had anywhere than in the White Goods Dept. of the Snellenburg Store, 2nd fl.

P.S. Keep a 1943 notebook to record the things you want to buy. Save for them. Snap them up when you find them. That's good planning, savvy shopping. Faithfully, FAITH.

LEARN TO SKATE! You're never too old. Ice-skating families have lots of fun. See that they're all equipped. One of the best sporting goods departments in the city for skates, of all kinds and prices, is in Snellenburg, on the 3rd floor. Tell anyone there that I sent you. Skates run from $4.88 to $17.95, for men, women, children. See especially the $6.45 skates, both hockey and figure types, with shoes, of course. They are a good buy! The skates for girls and women are sized from 1 to 8; for boys and men, 1 to 12. Go on, have fun, healthful fun!

HEAR YE! HEAR YE! Fur-trimmed coats valued at $45 to $69.50 are actually selling in the Snellenburg Coat Dept. (2nd fl.) This is the sale that women wait for each after-holiday season. These fine garments are 100% wool and include the most successful lines of the season, including newest sleeves and necklines. The furs include kit fox, blended mink, dyed squirrel, Persian lamb, tipped skunk, silver fox rump, etc. Misses' sizes 12 to 20. Hasten for a good selection!

YOUR "CHIMNEY SWEEP" isn't at all English, but, in this case, very American. He comes in a can, if you must know, and is the best little soot destroyer imaginable! It is said that 3/16 of an inch of soot causes 69% fuel loss—think of it! All you do to eliminate soot, however, is to spread "Chimney Sweep" powder over the red-hot coals. Wheeze into an oil or gas furnace fire box, through door, etc. Non-inflammatory, non-explosive. $1 can is a whole winter's supply. Wonderful! Snellenburg Housewares Dept., 3rd floor.

Women of Bensalem Area Busy With Red Cross Work

ANDALUSIA, Jan. 8—Mrs. Robert Barnhill, production chairman of Bensalem Branch of the American Red Cross, told her group at their meeting, Wednesday, at the residence of Mrs. George F. Bower that the 125 service kits completed and filled at the last gathering have been taken to headquarters.

Mrs. Caleb F. Fox, Jr., chapter chairman of production, congratulated Mrs. Barnhill for exceeding the quota of 100 set by Red Cross for the district.

"An example of the gratifying letters received from our boys about the kits," continued Mrs. Barnhill, "is one received by Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Kaufman, Merion, from their son Lt. Frank M. Kaufman, 2nd. Each man has received a package from the Red Cross containing paper, envelopes, a pencil, and a 25¢ mystery book. The latter has made a big hit. They are assorted, so few men get the same stories, and have been traded all over the boat. These kits come in a bag of herring-bone-twill rough khaki-colored. They have a double draw string that cannot get lost in its tunnel since it is endless. These bags are very much appreciated and have 100 different uses, carrying mail, shaving articles, and our few but very precious possessions."

Bensalem has received 50 more kits, and ways and means were immediately discussed for raising funds for the many articles that prove such a boon to our fighting forces.

The women who sew for the Red Cross meet in the home of Mrs. Bower, Burtonwood avenue, from 10 until four every Wednesday. At 12 noon Mrs. J. Arthur Knorr opens her home to the workers, serving tea and cookies. The women take their own sandwiches.

Those attending Wednesday's sewing session were: Mrs. Joseph Barnhill, Mrs. Bower, Mrs. Joseph Kish, Mrs. George L. Smith, Miss Alice Traub, Mrs. Grace Keaton, Mrs. Dorothea Twining, Mrs. W. J. Shibe, Mrs. Norman Gaugler, and Mrs. E. Paul Patton. Twenty-five kits and 50 "housewives" were made.

Pastor, Bristol Presbyterian Church

We thank Thee, O God our Father, that Thou hast given us another year. We are grateful for the clean slate which has been presented to us, and for the opportunities which will be ours in the coming days. Grant, O Father, that we might keep our slate clean; preserving it from the blemishes of the world, that when the new year becomes the old year and the records, unchangeable, are entered into the book of life, that Thou might be pleased with the way in which we have used the opportunities which Thou in Thy mercy didst give unto us. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

PHILADELPHIA—(INS)—A new set of "customers," navy blue, denim and khaki clad, are making up for a decline in patronage due to gasoline and tire rationing at the Philadelphia art museum. When travel restrictions first were imposed, attendance dropped from 500 to 100 visitors daily, while Sunday averages went from 10,000 to 2,000. Military personnel now comprises about 12 per cent of the museum's visitors. War workers account for another 38 per cent.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

That Spring is the time and the Rockies the place for everything melodious, romantic and gay, is the merry message of "Springtime in the Rockies," the lively musical in enchanting Technicolor which yesterday brought Betty Grable, John Payne, Carmen Miranda and a beautiful musical comedy cast to the screen of the Grand Theatre.

Prancing as a mountain breeze, it's the type of cinema divertimento that wraps itself around your heart and then won't let go. There is mile-high fun, when Betty Grable, Payne, combustible Carmen and Cesar Romero get their romantic signals mixed. And there is rhythm calculated to rock the Rockies themselves, when Harry James and His Music Makers set to mellow melody the exhilarating splendor of Canada's Lake Louise, which serves, for the most part, as the film's locale.

Rundle has a host of friends in Lower Bucks County, his team playing several of the schools in this section and he along with Coach "Bill" Dougherty, formerly of the Bristol High School, organized the "Little Brown Jug" game between the two schools. Rundle's football teams have won the South Jersey championship for several seasons and in 1940 his team was undefeated. Rundle, 37, is a graduate of East Stroudsburg. He is married and resides in Burlington. Recently, Charlie Beck, former coach of Langhorne, accepted a position at Burlington. Whether Beck will take Rundle's place for the duration is not known.

Know Your State
843	763	769

If you were the owner of all the dwelling units in Pennsylvania, including farm houses but excluding the farm land, your monthly gross rentals from these properties would probably exceed 70 million dollars. If you also owned the farm land and miscellaneous farm buildings, your monthly rental income should exceed 75 million dollars or the equivalent of nearly one billion dollars per year. This and other information appearing in this study of rental values was procured from an analysis of the U. S. Bureau of Census reports for 1940 by the State Planning Board of the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce.

The median monthly rental value of all dwellings in Pennsylvania whether urban, rural-nonfarm or farm dwellings and including owner and tenant-occupied units, was $23.61. Urban dwellings, which outnumber the total of all other classes two to one, had a median monthly rental of $26.92. Rural-nonfarm dwellings rented for $14.99 per month and rural-farm houses, considering them as dwellings only and not including the miscellaneous farm buildings and land, had a median monthly rate of $14.40.

Owner-occupied homes had, in all classes, a higher rental value than did rented quarters. The monthly rent for an owner-occupied dwelling was estimated by considering it one per cent of the total reported value of the property. By using this estimate, the median monthly rental for owner-occupied residences was $27.78 compared with $20.87 for those occupied by tenants. In urban areas, this figure for non-rented properties was $32.73 as compared with $23.73 for those rented. Owner-occupied rural-nonfarm and farm dwellings had a median monthly rental value of $19.37 and $18.01 respectively, while tenant-occupied homes averaged $12.43 and $10.91 for these same classes.

When considering urban and rural-nonfarm dwellings and excluding farm houses, which to a certain extent must be thought of as a part of a business enterprise and not as dwellings only, it was found that almost three-fourths of these properties, or 1,703,224, rented from between $10 to $40 per month. There were, however, 13,588 dwellings in these classes which rented for less than $3 per month. All but 14 per cent of these were located outside of urban areas in the rural-nonfarm districts. At the other extreme, there were 37,569 residences which rented for $100 per month or more, 83 per cent of which were located in urban areas.

When further analyzing the rental values of properties in urban and rural-nonfarm areas, it was found that there is a wide variance in these rates, the average rent in the State. Next to throughout Pennsylvania, the average the lowest was Fulton with an average ranging from slightly more than $12 of $13.28 per month followed by Snyder to nearly $50 per month. Forest county, Perry and Potter counties with ty with $12.20 per month had the low—$13.62, $13.64 and $13.83 respectively.
